AWARD

This is a reference made to this Tribunal by the Government of Goa, Daman and Diu, by its order No. IRM(CON)-(112)/76/IT(22)/76/215, dated 15th February, 1977, which in the schedule attached to it, read as follows:

"Whether the action of Shri Gangaram Morajkar, the employer, in terminating the services of Shri S. B. Diukar, driver, with effect from 6-9-75, is legal and justified;

If not, to what relief the workman is entitled to?"

2. The case of the workman Shrikant Diukar, Party-I in the proceedings, as per his statement of claim, is as follows:

The employer Shri Gangaram Morajkar, Party-II, is licensed by the Tourist Department of the Government to run a tourist taxi service which was attached to the Fort Aguada Tourist Resort, a luxury hotel, run by Taj Group of Hotels, at Sinquerim, Bardez. The said employer had in service three taxis bearing Nos. GDT 1277, GDT 1255 and GDT 1199. For his contract with the Hotel he was paid Rs. 1,500/- plus petrol charges on mileage. The workman herein was engaged, on verbal contract, by Tourist Taxi Service as driver on a monthly salary of Rs. 300/-. The hours of duty were rotated among the drivers on a 12 hour shift i.e. from 7.00 a.m. to 7.00 p.m. and from 7.00 p.m. to 7.00 a.m. The workman started working from 8-1-75. He was not paid of his wages on any register of payment but issued cheques from time to time on Canara Bank, Candolim Branch, for part payment of his salary. Full payment was never made under some excuse or the other. His services were terminated because he demanded payment of his wages. The ground alleged for the termination of the services of the workman was that the old driver had come back to work. At the time of engagement, the workman was not informed that his job was temporary until the return of the previous driver. The workman also was not given one months notice for termination of his services, nor paid for this period. No inquiry was held for any mis-conduct, if at all. The total period of his service is from 8-1-75 to 5-9-75—a period of 8 months, and total wages paid to him are Rs. 1150/-. The termination of services without payment of notice pay and without clearance of wages is illegal and in violation of the payment of Wages Act. As the Tourist Taxi is still in operation the workman claims reinstatement in service, his salary dues and continuity of service with full back wages. He has given in the annexure the details of the amounts received. The workman has not been able to secure permanent employment and has been put to great hardships because of his sudden termination of services.

3. The Employer, inspite of having requested for time several times, did not file any written statement. The statement of both the parties were recorded and the following issues were framed by my learned predecessor Dr. Coelho:

1. Does the Workman/Party-I prove that his services has been illegally terminated by the Employer/Party-II?

2. Does the Employer/Party-II prove that the Workman/P-I abandoned and voluntarily left his services?

3. Does the Employer/Party-II prove that the Workman misbehaved in the course of his employment?

4. The case of the Employer/Party-II, as per his statement before this Tribunal, is that he had given his taxi on hire to Fort Aguada Beach Resort for Rs. 1,500/- per month and, for this purpose, he had a driver paid at the rate of Rs. 10/- per day. As the driver went on leave, the workman herein was engaged w.e.f. 2-1-75, on same conditions. The employer had another taxi also hired to Fort Aguada which was driven by one Jaivant Lotlikar under same conditions. As a small employer, the employer did not maintain any wage register, but he had a private diary where all the payments by cheque or cash were entered. This diary (Exh-E-1) shows all the payments made to the applicant and other employees on different occasions. The applicant worked from 2-1-75 till 6-9-75 i.e. 8 months and four days. The total amount of his salary for this period is Rs. 2,440/- out of which he has received Rs. 2,140/-. There is a balance in his favour of Rs. 300/-, but as the applicant failed to discharge his duty on 5th and 15th April, 1975, the Fort Aguada Hotel deducted Rs. 100/- from the hire charges they had to make to the employer Morajkar. He has further stated that during the period of 8 months and 4 days, the applicant workman has attended duty for 30 days in January and April, 28 days in February and May, 24 days in June and July and 27 days in August and, therefore, his total wages amounted to Rs. 2,250/-. He has narrated the incident occurred on 27-8-75 between the applicant and the management of Fort Aguada, on account of which, he, Morajkar, was told by the management, that they did not want in a Five Star Hotel such rowdy and insolent driver like the applicant and, therefore, to take him away. That he came home and called the applicant to find out his version. The applicant gave his version and finally insulted him, the employer, with filthy words and left the place and did not come to work any more. When later he came to collect his arrears of pay, it was found that the employer had to pay him only Rs. 50/-. Exh. E-3 was sent to the applicant through the other driver but it was refused by the later.

5. The Workman/Party-I led his evidence and the Employer/Party-II examined himself plus two witnesses, namely John Rambhunjian, the Front Officer of Fort Aguada, and the other driver Jaivant Lotlikar.

6. It is an admitted fact that the workman/Party-I was employed by Employer/Party-II as driver in one of tourist taxis hired by Fort Aguada Beach Resort, a Five Star Hotel, on monthly basis. According to Party-II, the workman's job was temporary during the leave period of the other driver, but the workman has refuted this assertion saying that he was not told, at the time of his engagement, that his job was temporary. There is no other evidence, besides the bare statement made by the employer and employee, in respect of the permanent or temporary nature of the job given to the workman. There is not even a suggestion made by the workman's representative, while cross examining Party-II that the workman was engaged on temporary basis during the leave absence of the other driver, as contended by the employer and, therefore, I have to conclude that the workman has not proved that his job was permanent, as contended by him and not temporary, as contended by the employer.

7. Now, regarding the period of his service, the workman's contention is that he was engaged on 8-1-75 and removed on 5-9-75 i.e. with 8 months, and the total amount received by him is Rs. 1150/-.

The employer, on his side, contends that the workman worked from 2-1-75 to 6-9-75 i.e. 8 months and 4 days and the total amount paid to him is Rs. 2,140/- out of Rs. 2,440/- due to him. This shows that the workman's pay was at the rate of Rs. 300/- per month and not Rs. 10/- per day, as stated by Party-II, because Party-II, in the course of his statement, has admitted that the workman's attendance was not full in all the months and nevertheless he has calculated his salary for 8 months and 4 days at the rate of Rs. 300/- per month, which would go to show that he was paid per month and not per day.

From the diary Exh.A-1 produced by the employer, the correctness of which has not been challenged by the workman, it is shown that the total amount paid to the workman is Rs. 2,140/-, as stated by the employer, and not Rs. 1,150/-, as stated by the workman. The total amount of pay for the period of 8 months and 2 days works out, according to Party-II, in Rs. 2,440/- and since the workman has already received Rs. 2,140/- the balance of Rs. 300/- would stand in his favour. However, according to Party-II, in this balance, an amount of Rs. 100/- is to be deducted as the workman did not attend the Hotel on 5th and 15th April, 1975 and, therefore, the management deducted Rs. 100/- from the payment they had to make to Party-II.

The workman's representative has suggested in cross examination of Party-II that, on 5th and 15th April, 1975, the Taxi had to take Party-II wife to the hospital and, therefore, could not report for duty at the Hotel, which suggestion was denied by Party-II. From the statement of John Rambhunjian, Front Officer of Taj Hotel, and Exh. E-2 produced by him, it is seen that for each day the taxi is not available for the management, they deduct Rs. 50/- while making payment to the owner.

Since it is an admitted fact that, on 5th and 15th April, 1975, the taxi of the workman did not report for duty at the Hotel and since it is not proved that non-reporting was due to the fact that the workman had to take Party-II's wife to the hospital, as contended by the workman, I have to conclude that the amount of Rs. 100/- deducted by the management while making payment to Party-II is to be borne by the workman, for whose fault the deduction took place. The balance outstanding in favour of the workman would, therefore, be reduced from Rs. 300/- to Rs. 200/-.

8. Now, regarding, the termination of the services of the workman:

Since it has not been proved that the workman's job was permanent, it is obvious that the employer could terminate it at any time with a notice of 30 days.

Although the employer has stated that the workman left the job on his own, we are led to believe that he was removed from service due to the incident occurred at the hotel, as contended by the workman. This incident, as narrated by Party-II and confirmed by his witness John Rambhunjian, Front Manager of the hotel, is of serious nature and, therefore, the employer was justified in removing the workman from service, lest he might loose his contract with the hotel. His only fault is that since no previous notice was given to the workman, he had to pay him one month's salary in lieu of such notice, which he has not done.

9. I, therefore, reply to the reference as follows:

The employer was justified in removing the workman from the services, but only after giving him one month's notice or one month's pay in lieu of such notice. Since this was not done by the employer, the latter would have to pay to the workman Rs. 300/- on account of one month's notice plus the balance of Rs. 200/- of his previous salary.

Cost of Rs. 100/- to be paid by the employer to the employee.

Order accordingly.
